W. BUSSELL TO SUCCEED GRAY

ELECTED STATE COMMITTEEMAN AT 4TH DIST. LEGION MEET.

DELEGATES ELECTED

About Forty-Five Legionnaires Here Last Night at Meeting Held at Maryville Country Club.

Walter Bussell of the Lieut. Otto L. Mowry post No. 300 of Graham, was elected member of the state executive committee at a meeting of the Fourth Missouri District of the American Legion, held at the Country Club last night. Donald Sawyer of the Ralph Greer post No. 49, Rock Port, was elected as alternate. The district meeting last night was a success in every way, and the local Legionnaires were gratified at the splendid representation of the posts of the Fourth Congressional District, there being approximately forty-five here last night.

Edward W. Gray of the James Edward Gray post No. 100, Maryville, retiring state committeeman, was endorsed as the Fourth Missouri District delegate to the National American Legion Convention to be held at Omaha Neb., October 5-9. Harold Hall of the Allen-Sheffern post No. 199, Tarkio, was chosen alternate to Mr. Gray.

The confirmation of Mr. Gray as delegate to the national convention is a matter of form at the state convention, as delegates endorsed in the several districts of the state are passed on there.

Besides the election of these two important positions, the folllowing other committeemen were elected to represent the Fourth Missouri district at the state Legion department convention that is to be held at Springfield, August 10-12, and appointed to the respective committees:

Fred Wanger, commander of the Malcolm Macdonald post No. 11, St. Joseph, member of credentials committee; Walter S. Todd of the James Edward Gray post No. 100, Maryville, member of resolutions committee; F. L. Kirtley, of the Malcolm Macdonald post, St. Joseph, member of constitutional amendment committee; and Christian Yocum of the Raymond Gerner post No. 276, Dekalb, member of convention location committee.

County commanders for four of the counties out of the six in this district were elected last night at the district meeting. They are:

Buchanan County, E. W. Remelius, Ross Duggar post No. 385, St. Joseph.

Atchison County, Joe P. Vernon, Ralph Greer post, Rock Port.

Nodaway County, Garland O. Headrick, Rolla Dix post, Burlington Junction.

Holt County, Dr. H. M. McGee, Paul P. Shutts post, Mound City.

The movement to encourage a large representation of Legionnaires from the Fourth Missouri District to attend the National American Legion Convention at Omaha in a body was discussed from various angles and strongly urged by the representative delegations from the various posts at the meeting last night. To foster this move and make all preparations L. M. Eek of Maryville and J. F. Healey of St. Joseph were appointed as the committee.

D. A. Caldwell, secretary of Maryville Chamber of Commerce, member of the local post, gave a short talk at the meeting, discussing the problems affecting the Legion posts in the county.

A dinner was served by the Maryville members for the visitors on the east porch of the Country Club at 6:30 o'clock. During the dinner hour, Price Doyle, Luther A. Richman, Thomas A. Annett and Herbert E. Gray, instructors in the music department of the State Teachers College and all members of the local post, rendered several vocal, piano and instrumental numbers.

Those present at the meeting:

Thad Danford and John H. McCann, adjutant, Bradley-Hunterson-Oglesby post 268, Ravenwood, delegates; D. W. A. Haynes, commander, a delegate, Clarence Smith and D. K. Robbins, adjutant, all of James Harvey Hughes post 267, Skidmore; R. O. Yocum, delegate, Raymond Gerner post 276, Dekalb; B. O. Guthrie, commander, Harold Hall, delegate, D. J. Thomas, Jr., of Allen-Scheffern post 199, Tarkio; Miles L. KOREAN FLOOD WORST KNOWN

THOUSANDS OF PERSONS ARE BELIEVED DEAD.

MANY ARE HOMELESS

Districts Near Capital Are Reported Wiped Out By Waters—Public Utility Service Suspended.

Tokio, July 20.—The Korean flood disaster is the worst known in the history of that nation, according to meager reports reaching Tokio today.

Thousands are believed dead. Forty thousand are reported homeless. Property damage is enormous.

One report had it that 6,000 residents of the Tokio island district have been lost. Another meager dispatch, however, reported they had not been rescued. Confirmation of either report could not be obtained.

The Ryozan and Maura districts near Seoul, the capital city of Korea, are reported wiped out. Seoul is practically isolated. Water and electric service is suspended. Newspaper publication has been stopped. There is no danger of famine reported, however, due to large reserves of rice in undamaged warehouses.

ALL AGREE ON KNOWN FACTS

NO CONFLICT ON TRUTHS, SAYS HENRY A. FOSTER.

DIFFER IN OPINIONS

Mankind Must Get Together On Common Program, Made Up of Fundamentals, He Declares In Address.

"Science and religion disagree only in unknown fields, in unproved theories, but in the field of actual fact both are in full accord with each other," said Henry A. Foster, a member of the faculty of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College, in his address yesterday morning on "Religion and Science" to the members of the Men's Bible Class of the First Christian Church.

Mr. Foster, in his address, stated that science and religion were at war over mere opinions. Tracing the history of both, he declared that the nations of the world have never been able to agree on religion.

"From the Dark Ages to the present, mankind has had different opinions as to religion," Mr. Foster said. "The nations have had different opinions and have worshipped in a different way."

Even today, the speaker said, people cannot agree on religion and as a result there are the various denominations—Baptists, Methodists, Disciples, Presbyterians, and the others.

In science, too, there is a lack of agreement, Mr. Foster told the members of the Bible class. Various students hold to different beliefs. Even some of the best-known laws of science such as Newton's law have been modified and revised by modern thinkers, the speaker pointed out in his address.

Need Common Program.

"As a result of all this," Mr. Foster continued, "we have very distinct differences of opinion in both the fields of religion and science and even between the two. Therefore, the destiny of civilization rests upon a common program for the future upon which all of us can agree. We may disagree on the details and on the theories, all unproven, but all of us can agree on certain fundamentals in both religion and science. All of these common agreements should become planks in our program for the maintenance and upbuilding of society.

"All of us can agree on fulfillment of the law and common love. This can be one plank in our common program for the future. The common

Penniless Bucklin Lad of 16 Years Finds Many Friends in Maryville

Say brother, do you remember how proud you felt when you got your first suit with long trousers?

Well, that is the way Cecil West, age 16 years, felt yesterday afternoon, after he had been fitted out, only he was about the proudest and happiest a boy could ever be on such an occasion as this was in reality the first time he ever had what you might call "an entire new suit that was all his own."

But it is not so much around this fact that hangs a sad tale, but the facts of how he came to be in such condition to get this new suit and how it was procured.

Early Friday afternoon when the Burlington freight pulled into Maryville it brought with it an ill-clad, hungry, friendless lad.

He is only sixteen summers, but is small for his age. This boy has felt the bitter stings of life already in his career and knows what it is to go hungry and when night falls, has many a time had to hunt himself a place to cuddle up for rest. As mentioned, his name is Cecil West and his home was formerly in Bucklin, Mo., thirty-five miles from Chillicothe. Last September he lost his father and mother, and since then has been trying to get along, living with his grandfather. He has not neglected his schooling, having gone through the ninth grade.

Getting tired of knocking about in this little city of only about nine hundred inhabitants, Cecil started out, almost penniless, to "bum" his way to Creston, where he thought maybe his uncle, a Mr. Douglas, would give him a lift. He got as far as Maryville Friday, and as his stomach felt the pangs of emptiness, dropped off the freight.

As with all small boys who are roaming about the country in ragged clothes and bumming their way, he came into the hands of the city officers. But this time Cecil found a friend in one Leo Atherton, policeman No. 12. Spud, as Mr. Atherton is commonly known, gathered up in the Maryville Drug Store, a few of the silver dollars to help Cecil out Friday night. And then Cecil was given a place to sleep, Friday and Saturday nights, in the county jail.

And no one can say that Jim Braniger is not a man who doesn't have a big heart. He took Cecil home and gave him breakfast and Steve Roach also filled up a couple of plates which the lad relished that would do justice to a harvest hand.

Then yesterday afternoon at the ball game between Maryville and Pickering Mr. Braniger called the attention of the crowd to this homeless waif, who stood before the fans barefoot, clothed, only in overalls and a torn shirt and well-worn cap. Jim passed the hat around and collected $12.85.

W. J. Montgomery then took the lad in hand late yesterday afternoon and outfitted him in a suit consisting of coat, vest and long trousers, a shirt or two, necktie, shoes an extra pair of trousers. And with the rest of what had been collected Friday night and yesterday Cecil had enough to buy a "first-class ticket" to Creston and had about a dollar left. And Jim Braniger saw to it that Cecil got on the train and put in charge of the conductor of Burlington train No. 10.

IS APOSTLE OF AMERICANISM

MISS MIRIAM D. POLLOCK IS REAL BELIEVER.

IS IMMIGRANT GIRL

Eleven Members Of Her Family Killed At One Time In Russian Massacre.—Escapes To Germany.

A fervent apostle of 100 per cent Americanism, Miss Miriam D. Pollock a Russian refugee, now living at St. Joseph, will preach this gospel of patriotism "in the most wonderful country in all the world," she said in an interview with a Democrat-Forum and Tribune reporter yesterday afternoon.

Miss Pollock is visiting Miss Winona Zimmerman and Miss Fern Marx, College students at Residence Hall, and delivered an address at the Christian Endeavor meeting last night.

Miss Pollock's career reads like a page from fiction. She was born in Kiev, Russia, August 3, 1905 and her mother, a Jewess, was killed that year in a massacre during a revolution Her father, who was a Greek Catholic, was of the titled nobility, and Miss Pollock was enabled to travel extensively in the various countries of Europe.

In the early days of the Bolshevist uprisings in Russia, eleven members of Miss Pollock's family, including her father, were killed in a single massacre. She was seriously wounded but made her escape to Germany where she was taken to a hospital and given medical aid.

In the meantime, her two brothers, who survived the massacre, began a thorough search for her. While delirious at the hospital, she would call out her name. Because of her father being prominent in governmental circles, she was identified, and her two brothers notified where she was.

United again, the sister and two brothers, the only three survivors of a large family, started on a tour of Europe and visited France and England.

Remembering that she had an uncle somewhere in America, Miss Pollock wrote to a friend in New York City and told of her predicament. The story was given to the New York Sun and a copy of this newspaper happened to fall into the hands of some friends of her uncle, who at once notified him of her whereabouts.

Uncle Sends Funds.

The uncle, E. A. Leavitt of York, Neb., sent the necessary funds for transportation and she and her two brothers started for America and landed at Ellis Island, May 12, 1921.

Her uncle, who is in the manufacturing business at York, sent her to school at Boston and a suburb of Chicago. She finished the grammar department at Boston in three months and then attened a boarding school for girls near Chicago.

At the latter place she met a teacher, Miss Edith C. McColgin of St. Joseph, who invited her to her home to live and she has been there for more than a year, she says.

Miss Pollock intends to enter Mercy Hospital at St. Joseph next fall for training in nursing and will work her way through College. She was a student at Lafayette High School at St. Joseph last year. Upon the completion of her College work, she intends to teach either psychology or philosophy in some high school in the Middle West.

An American Now.

"You Americans should be proud of your country with its freedom, its opportunities and its beauty," Miss Pollock said as she leaned forward in her chair and gestured enthusiastically. "I appreciate it all so much because I was born and reared in Europe where no such freedom and opportunities were known.

"But I am an American now, because I have taken out my 'papers,' and this is another wonderful thing about our country. We open our arms and say 'Whomsoever Will, May Come,' and we let others share in our opportunities. Here in America, I can do as I please as long as I don't step on someone's rights. In my old home in Russia, the people do only the few things they are allowed to do by the government."

Miss Pollock says another reason why she likes America is because of its educational advantages—free schools and free thought. This is sharply different from Russia, she said, because there

Postal Rates to Be Subject of Study

Joint Congressional Committee Headed by Senator Moses Starts Work on General Investigation.

Washington, July 20.—A general investigation of the postal rates was started today by a special joint Congressional commission under the chairmanship of Senator George H. Moses, Republican of New Hampshire.

Appearing before the commission with a summary of the receipts and expenditures under the old and new laws Postmaster-General New said he expected there would be an increase in revenue under the rates which went into effect last April but that he could not tell what the total expense would be under the increased postal salaries authorized by Congress.

SAY EVOLUTION LAW OF LIFE

MEN OF LEARNING EXPLAIN BY AFFIDAVITS.

IS AMAZING DOCUMENT

Carries Attack Upon Fundamentalists Who Believe Literally—Claim God Is Spirit.

Dayton, Tenn., July 20.—One of the most amazing legal documents of history, through a series of affidavits, was read into the records of the Scopes anti-evolution trial here this morning.

The men of science, all voluntary defenders of John Thomas Scopes, produced one of the most impressive cases for evolution ever conceived.

It carried an attack upon the fundamentalists of religion and their literal interpretation of the Bible.

The scientific data, covering about 63,000 words, was based on the experiments of hundreds of experts and was placed in the trial records by affidavits because Judge Raulston refused to let the scientists testify in open court.

The scientists defended evolution as the first law of life.

The defense attorneys and scientists maintained that God is a spirit and is not the father of flesh.

In their defense of evolution, the men of science laughed at the claim of the Bible that the world was begun on October 23, 4004 B. C. On the contrary, they said, the world was formed a billion years ago at least.

To prove the earth's age, the scientists pointed to potash deposits in Tennessee as 500,000 years old.

Lieut. Leigh Wade Arrives At Kansas City at 8:20 A. M.—No Trouble Since Leaving Los Angeles.

Kansas City, Mo., July 20.—Lieut. Leigh Wade, world-flyer, attempting a non-stop transcontinental motor car trip, reached Kansas City at 8:20 o'clock this morning, less than a half hour behind schedule.

Accompanied by Wade, was Linton Wells, news writer and reporter of the trip. Wade drove through the city shouting he never felt better and that no trouble had been encountered since he left Los Angeles, Calif., last Thursday.

Washington, July 20.—Recount of the ballots in the election of Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa, independent Republican, over his Democratic opponent, Daniel C. Steck, was ordered by a sub-committee of the Senator privileges and election committee when investigation of the election was begun today.

A special staff of the election committee immediately began work of counting nearly a million ballots which were cast.

Final Hearing School District Case Aug. 3

Final hearing of the school district case has been set by the county court for August 3. The proposition concerns the proposed annexation of Bristle Ridge district 118 to Conception Junction district 125, which is opposed by several.

The matter was presented to the county court in special session Saturday afternoon.

DARROW GIVEN COURT PARDON

NOTED ATTORNEY OFFERS AN APOLOGY.

CITED FOR CONTEMPT

Is Held Under $5,000 Bond Earlier In Day—Charge Comes As Sensational Climax In Trial.

Courtroom, Dayton, Tenn., July 20.—The fires of human passion which have blazed in the Scopes trial were partially quenched this afteronon when Clarence Darrow, one of the leading members of the American bar, apologized to Presiding Judge John T. Raulston for the remarks which caused him to be cited for contempt of court.

Darrow told the court that he regretted his words from the moment that he read them in the stenographic records.

The judge then withdrew the contempt court citation.

Darrow made his apology as soon as the afternoon session started. The attorney-general, Thomas Stewart, first informed the court that Darrow desired to speak. The judge nodded consent and the great criminal lawyer arose, obviously embarrassed, but determined to wipe out the stain on his legal record.

"Whatever took place there was hurried," said Darrow, his arms folded. "The truth was that I did not know at the time how it sounded, and when I read it over I was sorry.

"Such a case as this never before arose in my forty-seven years of practice. I do believe, however, your honor, that I went further than I should have gone.

"So far as the people of Tennessee are concerned, I have never been in a community in my life where my religious beliefs have been accepted as quietly as here in Tennessee. I have been treated kindly here.

"I deeply regret my action and I apologize for it," Darrow concluded.

In replying, Judge Raulston's voice shook with emotion.

"If this little incident had been personal between Darrow and myself," said the court, "it would have passed unnoticed. When a judge speaks from the bench, he is a part of the great state and I could not afford to pass these words by. To do so would not do justice to the great state for which I plead from the bench. I accept your apology and will dismiss the citation against you."

Courtroom, Dayton, Tenn., July 20.—Coming as a sensational climax to the bitter personal feeling brought out by the clash between religion and science in the Scopes anti-evolution trial, Judge John Raulston today held Clarence Darrow, head of the defense counsel, in contempt of court.

The contempt decision was based on a colloquy held with the court by Darrow during Friday's session. In the exchange of remarks Raulston said Darrow had treated him with "contempt and insult."

The court held Darrow in $5,000 bond for appearance tomorrow morning.

As the judge finished reading the citation, Darrow arose solemnly, thumbing his famous suspenders and drawled "When do I give bond?"

"As soon as the sheriff serves the papers on you," the judge replied.

Turning to a group of defense scientists, Darrow asked "Is there anybody here who will go my bond?" There was no answer. Darrow smiled and turned to the court.

"I don't know whether I can get bond," he said.

"I guess you can," the judge retorted.

The sensation came as soon as court convened, the judge delaying the opening to let stenographers typewrite his remarks. Raulston read a copy of the colloquy he had with Darrow in which the latter said the defense did not expect the judge to rule in favor of their motion and that the only purpose in the local court was to complete the records so the defense could "find justice in another Washington—Extraterritoriality!

Try saying it. It can be done, of course—by most people. But mighty few can say it "on high." A vast majority have to throttle down and feel their way.

What I mean is:

Can you come to "extraterritoriality" unexpectedly, in the middle of a sentence, and take it uninterruptedly and go right on without a pause or a backward glance or a passing thought that you topped that enunciatory hurdle in pretty good style?

I'll take the negative on all bets offered, and win by a wide margin in the long run.

To illustrate. Here's the opening sentence in a letter from President Green of the American Federation of Labor to President Coolidge of the United States. See if you can read it rapidly and distinctly, clearly pronouneing every word, from start to finish.

"On behalf of the American labor movement I wish to urge for your favorable consideration and speedy action that the United States take the initiative in calling an international conference to make plans to abolish extraterritoriality in China."

Saying "extraterritoriality" is a serious problem at the state department right now. Chinese troubles have been uppermost there for several weeks and 'extraterritoriality's' their keynote, in many experts' opinion, so it has to be talked about half the time.

Some of the department folk, by constant effort and application, have got it down pretty pat. Some have trouble with it every time. A few can't say it at all.

It's delayed business appreciably, if the efficiency bureau, which is deeply concerned in such matters, is to be believed. Delay's ineffecient.

So the bureau asks, "Why not abandon the darn word? In future let's say 'extraterritorial rights'."

You gotta hand it to that bureau. It does think up the brightest things.

Hobbies of the Great and Near Great in American National Life

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first of a series of sketches which reveal the national political figure as a "brother under the skin" to the man behind the plow, the white collar worker or the day laborer. Others will follow.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

President Calvin Coolidge might be classed as a leader of the "hobby legion" in the official life of the nation's capital.

Coming out of New England with simple tastes and his character moulded by the rugged life of his childhood days in Vermont, he has developed as many hobbies here as any other man in Washington. His hobbies are simple—ordinary even—but over them is laid a mantle of sincerity which adds a touch of the dramatic.

The President loves economy. It is his brain-child and greatest hobby. He practices it as ardently in his private life as in his public office. He loves politics, too, and the lure of public service might be given second place in a list of his fancies.

Walking Favorite "Sport."

His favorite "sport" is walking, and he gets most enjoyment out of strolling unconcernedly about the streets of Washington. On these jaunts he will rub elbows with crowds of Government workers, women shoppers and bevies of high school girls, apparently oblivious of their fascinated interest. He simply acts "at home" among them.

But the theory of practical economy is a pet with the President. He enforces it in the management of the White House kitchen as rigidly as in a Government department.

The trend of the Presidential mind along this line may best be illustrated by an anecdote of his early married life in Northampton, Mass. It is revealed by Mrs. Coolidge.

It seems that Mrs. Coolidge—she who has captured Washington society as few other mistresses of the White House have done in decades—was "taken in" by a smooth-tongued book agent, who sold her a volume of home remedies which she thought might be helpful in rearing the Coolidge sons. The Coolidge home was being run on a strict budget, and the book was relatively expensive.

No Panacea, Says Cal.

As the story goes, Mrs. Coolidge postponed telling Calvin about it, but placed the book in a conspicuous place. Several days passed, and the President-to-be apparently never noticed it. Then one day Mrs. Coolidge opened the book to look up some homel remedy and found inscribed on the fly-leaf:

"I see in here cures for almost every ailment, but I find NO cure for suckers.

"(Signed) C. C."

That love for economy is rigidly enforced in the White House today. A budget is maintained at all times, and even John Coolidge must account for every expenditure at his preparatory school. Mrs. Coolidge recently told friends that the President made John keep a personal budget, which must be submited "to home" each month, and that every extra extravagance was severely reprimanded. And the Coolidge salary is only $75,000 a year.

The President is thoroughly human. He loves pets. In the White House grounds are Rob Roy, a white collie, and Tige, a nondescrip tomcat.

For Economy of Time.

On numerous occasions the President has sat petting these animals while engaged in important conferences at the White House.

As for the mechanical horse, which the President rides in his bedchamber, he uses that merely for exercise. He actualy likes horseback riding, but "there's too much lost motion in it"—this he once confided to a friend. The 'lost motion," he explained, came NOT upon the horse's back, but in donning a riding costume, walking to the stables, taking a ride and then returning to the White House to change back to business clothes before "going to work." Therefore his exercise comes from short walks through the streets of the capital and by riding "Old Ironsides."

Since becoming President, Mr. Coolidge has developed a fondness for baseball. It is a hobby now, for he was one of the most enthusiastic rooters when Washington won the world's series last Fall. This year has tossed out the first ball at the opening game and participated in the exercises attending the raising of the "world champions' " flag.

More recently still he has shown a real liking for the theatre, and he told friends he "keenly enjoyed" the current version of the "Follies."

Tomorrow—Charles G. Dawes.

Women Drivers More Competent Than Men

Washington, July 20. — (United Press)—Scientists and psychologists have determined after a series of tests that women automobile drivers are just as competent if not more competent than men, the American Automobile Association announces.

In two tests women were found more competent. They are first, the speed with which the driver reacts to danger and takes steps to avert it, such as applying the brakes; and second the consistency with which the driver responds to such a situation.

In the first test the experts found it took 10 college women .56 seconds to react to danger and men .59.

In the second test the variability of 10 women was only .17 seconds while that of 10 men was .22 seconds.

Community Advertising Is Discussed at International Convention

Community Advertising was given a prominent position on the program of the annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs held in Houston, recently. This topic is creating a great deal of interest wherever it has been tried. Following are a few of the expressions from the convention.

"Along the border, El Paso, Tuscon and Phoenix register their new arrivals at a cost of from $25.00 to $60.00 each. In Tuscon, an investment of $85,000.00 in 3 years brought $2,033 arrivals and new investments of $1,178,000.00 of record, including real estate purchase of $300,000.00 and automobiles costing $68,000.00.

"A guess indicates that some $4,000,000.00 is expended for what may be properly called community advertising.

"One of the outstanding accomplishments of the years has been the campaign in Chattanooga, Tenn., to raise $50,000.00 a year for 5 years for community advertising. The Community Advertising Ass'n., in that city now purposes to obtain a survey before undertaking to let any contracts for advertising.

"The developments in Maine at the present session of the state legislature are most worthy of our attention. An appropriation of $25,000.00 for 2 years has been made by the Maine Legislature. The cities and towns have been authorized to hold meetings to consider appropriations for magazines and newspaper funds. Portland started out with an appropriation of $10,000.00. Inasmuch as Portland never before made an appropriation of this character for publicity, this is an indication of what a change has come over the people of Maine since Governor Brewster signed the state bill. Various towns have already made appropriations ranging from $25.00 to $6,500.00. Maine's slagan has already been suggested: "Bring them to play—persuade them to stay."

Endowed with Modesty

How different from today. Women and men were not allowed together on the same bathing beach.

In 1870, a lady would have been overstepping the bounds of modesty if she had sought to manage her own affairs.

Today how different. Women as well as men are creating for themselves endowment insurance that guarantees their independence.

We shall be glad to explain to you this most effective of all methods of saving and investment.

Romance Starts in A Roller Coaster

Akron, O., July 20.—(United Press)—Two months ago Lloyd Lewis met Miss Julia Melnick on a roller coaster in an Akron amusement park. Since the romance started on the amusement device the couple expressed a desire to have it culminate there. Last Friday night standing in a car on the highest hump of the coaster, Lloyd and Julia took the vows of matrimony and then shot down the greased skids with a squeal of delight.

Competition and Service

"If you look at the oil industry without bias," says W. C. Platt in the National Petroleum News of April 29, 1925, "I believe you will find that it has been a typical American industry, with much competition and great freedom of competition in the last twelve or fifteen years."

Mr. Platt cites the case of Ohio—which is very similar to that of several Middle West states served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

In 1912, Ohio had 63,000 automobiles. In 1924, it had 1,244,000 automobiles—or about 1900% increase.

To serve this vastly increased business has been a task of such herculean proportions that the oil companies then in business could not increase their facilities fast enough to keep up with the demand.

As the need of petroleum products increased, competition increased—not only to provide the additional service required but in order that society might function efficiently and smoothly.

An industry grows in response to the demand of consumers for more products and more efficient service.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has grown in response to the demands of the public. It has grown in the face of keen, persistent, aggressive competition and holds its leadership solely through rendering a consistently superior service.

In ten Middle Western states in which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) operates, there are some 3489 competitive oil companies.

In all of its dealings with competitors, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) employs the same principles—fairness and justice which it insists are the rights of its employes and stockholders. To its customers it gives thoughtful service, superior products and the utmost of value for the money they spend.

It is by following these sound practices that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has grown from an organization of moderate proportions to be one of America's foremost institutions—in size, scope and service.

Marriage Causes Woman to Wonder About Her Position

Just because a woman marries, does she lose her job?

That's what Mrs. Cecil Wilson, formerly Miss Gladys Sewell, is wondering today.

Mrs. Wilson entered the Raines and Chaves jewelry stort this morning to resume her duties there. By a previous arrangement, all of the clerks were in the back room of the store and only Miss Madeline Emmert, a niece of Mrs. H. L. Raines was up in front.

Miss Emmert approached Mrs. Wilson and inquired if there was anything she wanted.

"Just make yourself at home and I will be glad to show you anything in our line," she told Mrs. Wilson. The two had never met before, and Mrs. Wilson thought Miss Emmert had her position.

"Why—why—I used to work here myself, but I—I don't know whether I have a job now or not," the former Miss Sewell stammered.

It was finally arranged that Mrs. Wilson could have her old job back.

Is 80 Years Old and Still Enjoys to Fish

Hillsboro, Ill., July 20.—(United Press)—Eighty years old and still fishing.

That is the reputation Mrs. Susan J. Kessinger enjoys and local people claim she is the oldest active fisherwoman in this section of the country.

Recently "Mother" Kessinger, as she is known along the fishing front, came in and applied for her annual fishing license. It was granted immediately.

"I like to fish," she said when questioned about keeping up the angling, nettie, etc., until she was 80. "I have some good customers, make a comfortable living—and well it's something to do."

Mother Kessinger has been a familiar figure in the fishing haunts for the past thirty odd years. She says she will continue fishing until she is too old—but gives no hint of when that time will be.

only the nobility are given the privileges of education and the poorer classes must remain in ignorance.

"Ah, America, with all its freedom is wonderful," she exclaimed in a slight Russian accent. "You cannot appreciate this freedom until you have been deprived of it, and then it all seems so good and great. Why here in this country I can worship whom I please and in any way I please, because America gives me freedom of religion. In Russia, they tell you how to worship, when to worship and where to worship. But not in America.

Americans Are Kindest.

"I believe you Americans are the kindest people in all the world, even if you are not the most courteous. This kindness is much in evidence every place I go. You take the stranger in and are kind to her. You are willing to share your opportunities with others."

Then America is a combination of all the good qualities of all the nations of the world, Miss Pollock said yesterday afternoon. It is truly a "melting pot" and its product is the finest of materials, she said.

"And America is the most beautiful country in all the world," Miss Pollock concluded. "It is beautiful spiritually, morally and materially. Its customs, its traditions, as well as its scenes are beautiful—the most beautiful in all the world. Because of all these things, I am proud to be an American."

And as the reporter rose to go, he thought that others, born, reared and educated in America, might take a lesson in patriotism from this little Russian immigrant girl.

origin of man—be it what it may—is another thing upon which all of us agree. We believe that every person was created in the same way."

All Are Dependent.

There is inter-dependence between members of society, Mr. Foster said, and this fact is commonly believed by all, so it is another plank which can go in the program for the future.

"We can also agree that we have a common goal—life after death," the speaker continued, "and this, too, can be made a part of our program in which all scientists and religionists can unite."

Mr. Foster called attention to the fact that there are fanatics in both religion and science. They have their "pet" theories or opinions, he said, and this adds to t he conflict between the two. But a common program, made up of fundamentals, offers the solution to the problem, he concluded.

Battery C Is Praised For Its Shooting On Range During the First Day of "War"

The following is the third of a series of letters about the activities of Battery C, 128th F. A., Missouri National Guard of Maryville that is at summer camp at Fort Riley, Kan., which is written by the staff correspondent of the Democrat-Forum and Tribune, Sgt. Ray V. Blomfield:

Pawnee Flats, Fort Riley, Kan.
Saturday evening, July 18.

Democrat-Forum and Tribune:

We had quite a war today. Outside of one or two near nervous wrecks, we got along very well. As a whole our new recruits behaved nicely. Last year on our first day on the range was very unsuccessful and we were generally condemned by all the officers. As I remembered it, we fired beyond our safety zone and played havoc with a farmer's garden. Our first day of fire was the primary cause of our failing to get the honor cup at last camp.

But today, we fired several problems and were very successful. We were praised by the instructing and supervising officers and we feel that we have a splendid chance for the cup. We fired 261 shells, costing $12.50 each, or a total of $3,263.50 that was slammed into the barren soil of these Kansas bluffs. But the tragic part of it all was that even though we burned this quantity of powder, we, nevertheless, had to eat on 26 cents per day per person. The relative ratio is not really regular.

A warm, stiff wind from the south all day made the temperature a bit more pleasant but it added to the difficulty of giving orders and it also noticeably added to our color.

We had another electric storm last night, accompanied by a nice shower. Beyond disturbing our sleep by forcing us to put our tent walls down, we suffered no damage. A shower threatened this morning but it seemed the sun was capable of overcoming some astounding handicaps.

I guess I shall have to be careful of whom I write. Some of the fellows have made meaningful remarks concerning the possible application of a forceful bath in the horse tank. Some have made the remark that it seems queer that I was confined to my bunk yesterday all day with a touch of ptomaine poisoning and so escaped a day's work but that when evening came, I felt sufficiently recovered to go to Junction City and enjoy a one-ring circus. I could not convince them that a sick person usually feels better in the evening.

"Irish" and "Freckles" rounded up two long-tailed lizards, the kind a Saturday nighter sees in a nightmare, and have entertained themselves with lizard fights. These reptiles are quick as a flash and are as savage as bulldogs. They really stage an interesting fight. When I woke the fellows in tent No. 4 this morning, I was surprised to see four lizards, all of different shapes and colors, chained to the tent pole. Some people exhibit a more or less unusual choice of pets. One fellow has been weaning a horned toad all day. The toad will hook his sharp claws in a wool shirt and will never move a muscle.

Practically every fellow in camp is going to town tonight. I don't care to go. In fact, I haven't had much desire to go since the first sergeant told me I was in charge of quarters tonight and that I could report the battery to the officer of the day.

Tomorrow is in the order of a vacation. In fact, we already have the promise that we can sleep until 6:30 o'clock. Then all we have to do is stand inspection, roll our tents, answer church call and then we can go where we please, just so we are back by 4 p. m. For regimental review and to answer water call for our horses. Of course we all have to attend the picture show at the Fort after evening mess. I suppose it will be interesting, such as "The Federal Fight Against the Boll Weevil," or "How to Have Perfect Teeth," or some such topic. "And a good time was had by all." You know what they say about Sunday in the army.

Well, only seven more days. I guess it could be worse—maybe.

Sergeant Ray V. Blomfield.

Gunplay Flares Up Before Divorce Suit

Mrs. Della Keating of Denver, Colo., Thrusts Revolver at Husband and Threatens His Life.

Kansas City, July 20.—The rehearing of a divorce suit of Stephen E. Keating against his wife, Della Keating, of Denver, Colo., brought gun play today in the corridors of the Circuit courtroom.

As Keating, accompanied by attorneys, stepped out of the elevator, Mrs. Keating leaped from a bench, thrust a revolver against her husband's chest, and shouted, according to witnesses, "Stephen, I am going to kill you."

Keating seized Mrs. Keating's arms and J. V. McNamara, deputy sheriff, disarmed the woman and took her to the sheriff's office.

Keating was granted a divorce by default on July 2. The decree was set aside July 16 when Mrs. Keating alleged she was not notified of the filing of the suit.

A clipping from a Denver newspaper, exhibited by Keating, described a $50,000 alienation suit filed by Mrs. Keating against her husband's mother, Mrs. Margaret Keating.

Auto Plates Half Price After Aug. 1

All 1925 automobile and truck license plates will sell for one-half of the regular price after August 1, Donahl A. Caldwell, secretary of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce, said this morning. A number of inquiries have been received as to when the reduced prices would become effective, Mr. Caldwell said.

This also holds true for the city motor vehicle licenses.

Man Killed in Street Brawl in St. Joseph

Floyd Karr of Amazonia Dies—L. E. Smith Faces Murder Charge.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 20.—One man is dead and another is in jail facing a murder charge as the result of a street brawl at Fourth and Edmond in this city at 7:45 a. m., Sunday.

Floyd Karr, 33 years old, Amazonia, Mo., victim of the quarrel, died 10 minutes after the fight, in the police station, failing to recover consciousness after being struck on the head with a leather covered, lead-filled blackjack.

L. E. Smith, 27 years old, 401½ Edmond street, was arrested as the fight closed and held facing arrangement on a murder charge lay sleeping in his cell in the police station Sunday afternoon and night, apparently oblivious to a bandage about his own head or what went on around him.

Police Detective Eads nabbed Smith three minutes after Karr fell, called the ambulance and aided by Officers E. J. Smith and L. J. Swope rushed Karr and Smith to the police station.

Karr died on the floor of the police station only a few feet from where Smith was being booked by the desk sergeant.

After the undertaker took charge of the remains two brothers of the dead man, who live in St. Joseph, were called. They are Warren and Irving Karr, both living on the outskirts of the city.

They said Karr had been working at the H. E. Heumader quarry. Karr's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Karr Amazonia, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morris of St. Joseph came Saturday to visit the latter's mother, Mrs. W. E. Morton.

Trails of Footloose Tribes All Lead To His Door

Fort Smith, Ark., July 20.—It looks like any other drug store, this place on Garrison avenue here; it has the same sort of window displays, the same marble topped soda fountain, the same racks of magazines beside the door.

But in reality it is the place where the romances of the vagabond kingdoms meet; the place where strange trails go down; the place where the prince without a throne can find the girl who is always wandering.

For W. H. Cole, the druggist, is the unofficial postmaster for all the footloose gypsy tribes of the world.

Know All the Tribes

Cole and his wife know the location of nearly every gypsy tribe or clan in existence. To their store each week come scores of letters and dozens of telegrams, which they forward on to their destinations promptly.

Only a small percentage of the residents of Fort Smith know about Cole's drug store; but thousands on thousands of gypsies know of it.

From all the strange corners of the earth come messages to this druggist—from the plains of Canada, the hill country of Austria, the fields of France and Italy, the dusty highways of the United States.

Adopted by Tribe.

Cole himself is used to the wanderings of these romantic tribes. When a boy of eleven he was adopted by a nomadic tribe and he stayed with them until he was of age, traveling all over the world.

He speaks their language fluently, knows their customs and habits, shares their joys and counsels them in their difficulties.

When he withdrew from the tribe of his adoption, in his early twenties, he turned his attention to business. As he became permanently located various gypsies began to mail him letters to be forwarded, until finally nearly every tribe in the world uses his store as a central clearing station for correspondence.

Wife Knows Them, Too.

Mrs. Cole, too, is known to the gypsies. Several years ago tribes decided to elect an outsider, or "gorgio man," as a sort of administrator. Since Cole was, by adoption, one of them, he could not be chosen, so they asked his wife to serve.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Cole are anxious to put in a good word for the wandering tribesmen.

"They do not steal little children," says Mrs. Cole. "They have too many of their own. I've lent them money many times and never once have I been cheated."

Fond of Ornaments.

The gypsies' fondness for ornaments leads them to carry most of their wealth on their persons, in the shape of jewelry or as gold coins attached to the clothing.

Gypsies are very religious, the Coles say, usually adopting the religion of the country they spend most of their time in. Thus the English gypsies are Episcopalians, Spanish gypsies are Catholics and Turkish gypsies are Mohammedans.

The Coles have enough pictures and trinkets of gypsy friends to stock a museum.

Great and Near Great Are Same As Rest of Us

The great and near-great in American life today are just as human as their brothers behind the plow, in the office, and in the store—so finds William K. Hutchison, International News Service writer, after personal contacts and interviews with a number of the most prominent men in America.

In his series of intimate glimpses into the fads and foibles of well-known figures, the writer gives some characteristics not hitherto known of our nation's great.

This series, "Hobbies of the Great and Near-Great," starts in today's Democrat-Forum and Tribune.

"Baby Betty" to Stay With Her Mother

Wife of Wealthy Kansas City Theatrical Man Waives All Claims to Winsome 4-Year-Old.

San Francisco, July 20.—"Baby Betty" Freeman will remain with her mother.

The fight put up by the two women who loved the winsome 4-year-old baby girl was at an end today. Mrs. Frank C. Grubel, wife of a wealthy Kansas City theatrical man, waived all rights she believed she had over the child and instructed her attorneys to drop the suit brought in San Francisco to have Betty taken from the baby's mother.

The case had aroused nation-wide interest. In its way, it was a twentieth century version of the problem made famous by King Solomon centuries ago. In San Francisco, the case stirred considerable feeling.

"Baby Betty" is a love child. She was born in Kansas City, Mo., when her mother, now Mrs. Horace B. Gerome, was Jewell Freeman, a 16-year-old school girl, broken, disillusioned and weary of life. The father of the tiny girl deserted her shortly after she was born. He has not been heard of since.

Attachment and Back Tax Suits are Filed

An attachment suit was filed in circuit court today by Dr. Charles Bell and Dr. W. M. Wallis, Jr., against Jack Bennington, who is now outside of the state, for medical and surgical services for defendant's wife and minor children between August 15, 1924, and March 20, 1925. The services rendered were set to value of $366 on which $28 had been paid. An attachment on lot 5, block 8, Southern Extension to Maryville is sought by the plaintiffs.

Delinquent taxes to amount of $148.07 due for years 1921-22-23, is claimed due on property in the name of Luther Williams and others, and a suit in circuit court was filed today the state of Missouri, ex rel., Bess C. Thorp, collector Nodaway County, against the above named defendant.

The land named in the suit is described as:

In Nodaway township, southeast quarter of northwest quarter, and the southeast quarter of northwest quarter and southwest quarter of northeast quarter of section 8, township 65, range 36.

Many Inquiries Regarding Weed

White Snakeroot Causes Trembles Among Cattle

Jefferson City, July 20.—Many inquiries about white snakeroot, a weed alleged to poison cattle and other livestock, have been received at the office of the Missouri state board of agriculture. Outbreaks of the poisoning in other nearby states are thought to have prompted the questions.

White snakeroot is common in Missouri, said Jewell Mayes, secretary of the board. It is a slender plant from one to four feet tall, with broad leaves. It is credited with producing a disease called "trembles" in livestock with a peculiar muscular trembling.

Mr. Mayes has answered all requests for information on the plant, telling the writers "that the most effective method of eradication is constant grubbing during the growing season."

According to photographs of the monument of Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn to be erected at Hannibal, Mo., the faces of the statues have a decidedly angelic cast. If this is the case they are not Tom and Huck.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Things Looking Dark For Russell Scott

Will Be Hanged Friday Unless His Brother Gives Himself Up, Governor Small Says in Statement

Chicago, July 20.—Things began to look black today for Russell Scott, condemned to hang at dawn Friday for the murder of Joseph Maurer, drug clerk.

Robert Scott, brother of the doomed man and his companion on the night of the murder and named by Russell Scott as the actual slayer, has not yet given himself up to the authorities, although a telegram purporting to be from him gave Russell a reprieve of seven days just before he was to have gone to the gallows last Friday.

The appearance of Robert Scott, according to a statement by Governor Len Small, is the only thing that will save Russell.

Bryan Capitalizes on Disagreement of Evolutionists

By JULIAN S. HUXLEY,
Fellow of New College and Senior Demonstrator in Zoology, Oxford University, England.

(Written for the United Press.)
(Copyright 1925 by United Press)

Oxford, England, July 20.—William Jennings Bryan makes capital out of the disagreement of evolutionists.

He seems to forget that there are three branches and scores of sects of Christianity with far more bitter differences.

There is no disagreement whatever among biologists that evolution has occurred and that it applies to man equally with other organisms.

Bryan's own body contains far more circumstantial evidence for evolution than would convict a dozen men of murder.

Human development is even more striking; Do the fundamentalists realize that each of them before birth passed through a phase with a tail, and through an earlier phase with gills, slits like a fish and started from one primitive cell?

Evolution is obvious in the development of every human being.

I see that Bryan is threatening to "write the Bible into the United States constitution." (Bryan has denied he meant this literally.) Let us hope he remembers that this involves the belief in a flat earth, in demons, witchcraft, condonation of polygamy and wars of extermination.

Most important it involves a conception of the Deity which is self-contradictory since it is impossible to reconcile the warlike and jealous early Jehovah with the just God of the prophets or the loving Father of the New Testament.

When will all fundamentalists realize that worship of a book is just as stupid and wicked as worship of a graven image and far more dangerous in its consequences?

The amazing thing is that, owing to their pinning their faith, to antiquated and unessential things in the Bible, they are endangering its real message.

The matter at issue is not in any sense a fight between religion and science but a fight between science and a very primitive obscurantist and socially dangerous religion of the fundamentalists.

Meanwhile the fundamentalists can be happy in the reflection that they are doing their best to dethrone America from the position of world leadership she held after the war by making her the laughing stock of civilization.

Julian S. Huxley, grandson of Charles Darwin's contemporary, Thomas H. Huxley, now senior demonstrator of zoology in Oxford University, England, and former assistant professor in Rice Institute, Houston, Tex., has written exclusively for the United Press to William Jennings Bryan's position as outlined at Dayton. In the appended article Huxley pays bitter respects to fundamentalists.

MERCHANTS ON BATTING SPREE

TOUCH 4 PICKERING HURLERS FOR 17 HITS.

FINAL SCORE 20 TO 4

Next Game Will Be Benefit Game With the St. Mary's Church Team On Next Sunday Afternoon.

To say that the players of the Maryville Merchants' Ball Club found their batting eye after a terrible slump for six games, would be making it lightly. Just ask Eugene Dixon, Gumm, Chas. Carmichael and Burks, who all tried to stem the slugging yesterday in the Maryville-Pickering game in which the locals won 20 to 4. The Merchants clouted everything that came towards the rubber, and with a few bob-ups at critical times by Pickering players, ran wild around the diamond for four runs in the fourth, four more in third, seven in the fifth, and five more runs in the eighth innings.

Dixon, who usually pitches a steady game, was relieved of the mound duties after the third inning, retiring in favor of Gumm, and went out to center field. In the third inning Tilson walked, on an error Mayes went to first, and Tobin was given a ride to first, filling the bases. Heine Buhler came up next and stretched a long drive between center and right field for a home run, and then the Pickering boys gave up the ghost.

Pickering scored in this inning, Brennan going to first on a single and Marvin Carmichael, short stop brought him in with a single.

Forgetting all principles of "kindly hosts" the Merchants again put on a crusade in the fifth inning with Gumm the center of the attack, scoring seven runs. Three errors, a walk and four hits were chalked up in the last of the fifth against Pickering.

The seventh inning again found Maryville fighting the jinx, but the lead the locals annexed was too great to be overcome. On two errors and a home run by Brennan, the visitors crossed the rubber twice and did so again in the first of the ninth.

Fifty-three Maryville batters faced the Pickering pitchers, as Waller was given one free ride; Meyers the same; Still was walked once; Tilson was pitched four balls on two occasions; Tobin got two free rides and Buhler was walked once.

Both teams wanted to win so bad they could taste it as three of the Pickering players, Jamison, Brennan and Tobin, were on the Maryville line-up the fore part of the season and Dixon has played with the locals several times this season, losing a 1 to 0 game to Whitesville and his batting has been effective in the games he has played in the outfield.

The next game for the Merchants' team is the Benefit Game of next Sunday, when the St. Mary's church team will be opponent. The Merchants will loan St. Marys the services of H. Buhler.
